About this piece

This pleated Vaseline glass lampshade dates to around 1900 and captures the decorative clarity of late Arts and Crafts movement (1880–1910) glass design. Hand-blown in translucent Vaseline glass, the shade alternates pale yellow and opalescent white stripes that taper toward the fitter rim. The edge is softly ruffled to enhance light diffusion and produce a warm, even glow when lit.

Diameter of fitter rim 3 cm (1.18 in). The glass remains in good condition with small nibbles to the fitter edge consistent with age and use. Ideal for antique pendant fittings or period restoration lighting.
