About this piece

A rare pair of early Gothic Revival cast iron garden bench ends

Designed by A. W. N. Pugin, with foliage details which is slightly obscured at the moment due to the many coats of paint. The first image here with wooden seat and back is an example of how it can look when new seating slats have been made. (With or without wooden runners to the feet).

It is dismantled and ready for shipping, and it would save on shipping costs if the slats were made after it has been delivered. It can be made longer or shorter than the measurements stated if required.
