About this piece

42 x Riccardo Blumer for Alias 301 Laleggera model '301' lightweight stacking chairs, all priced individually. There are 5 x steel trolleys available separately at £100 each if required. Each trolley takes up to 14 chairs. The 301 Laleggera chair with its uniquely-angled backrest and refined curves of the seat gives it a clean modern finish. When not in use, the chairs stack away on 5 x trolleys to easily move them all around and to save space. Each trolley has stationary brakes, to secure them when not in use. Frame: birchwood veneer Filling: injected polyurethane making them incredibly strong and very lightweight. The 301 Laleggera chair was designed by the talented designer Riccardo Blumer for the Italian furniture brand Alias. Blumer was born in Bergamo in 1959. He graduated from the prestigious Milan Polytechnic before taking up a career as a furniture designer. In 1996, Blumer designed the now-iconic Laleggera Chair for Alias, which went on to win the ADI Compasso d'Oro award in 1998. In 2009 the Laleggera collection became part of the permanent collection at the Museum of Modern Art in New York and the Centre George Pompidou in Paris.
